Preface

Mental health is not merely the absence of mental disorders. The World Health Organization defines mental health as “a state of well-being in which the individual realizes his or her own abilities, can cope with the normal stresses of life, can work productively and fruitfully, and is able to make a contribution to his or her community” (World Health Report, 2001).

We all have to face day today life stressors. It is an inevitable part of our lives. Most of us are able to manage stress, while some people may have difficulties in coping with stress. There can be situations where they might need psycho-social support to manage their mental health issues. There are different institutions- state as well as private, to support people with psycho-social issues. Ministry of Health has established a mental health help line - 1926 to facilitate emergency needs of general public in mental health related conditions. The Directorate of Mental Health with World Health Organization (WHO) and National Institute of Mental Health (NIMH) has extended the national helpline -1926 to all districts.

Persons working towards the improvement of mental wellbeing need information on mental health and psycho-social service providers including counseling in order to facilitate better mental health. This directory provides district wise information compiled according to five sections: Government Hospitals, Other Government Institutions, Non-Governmental Organizations, Children Homes & Care Services and Elders’ Homes & Care Services. The information provided in this directory will facilitate users to easy reference related to mental health services in their respective districts.

Publication of this book has been an achievement of a long-felt need. Information in this directory will help users’ easy references. This directory comprises of the information collected from each district relevant to all aspects of mental health service provision. The health sector alone cannot work towards improvement of mental health of people. Many other sectors such as education, social services, youth affairs, child and women’s affairs, justice and other government and non-governmental organizations have a significant role. The content of this directory is a proof that multi-sectoral involvement is already in place in the field of mental health.

Dr. Rohan Ratnayake
Director/Mental Health

Message from the former Chair Professor, Department of Psychiatry, University of Sri Jayawardenepura

World Health Organization estimates a significant proportion of the world population, one in eight live with mental disorders. This demonstrates enormous need for mental health care in the world. Although effective treatment is available, most people do not have access to mental health care facilities. Mental health has not received its due place in many cultures. Children, adults and senior citizens with severe mental disorders are vulnerable and they need specialized services to live a near normal life. Members of the society who are studying, working, bringing up children also affected by mental illnesses. They lose their dignity and quality of life by not being able to access mental health care facilities to recover from the condition.

Sri Lanka has ever increasing demand for mental health services. The reasons for the increasing mental health demand are multi-faceted. A prolonged armed conflict of the country, breaking down of traditional value systems, increasing stress levels, economic hardships, increase of drug use and violence contribute to mental ill-health of masses. Anxiety, depression, post-traumatic disorder and other stress related disorders are on the rise, demanding health care provision closer to their homes to lead productive lives. People with serious mental health concerns are across the life-cycle and they live in the community. To mention a few, developmental delay and autism in children, addiction disorders in adolescents, schizophrenia, severe bipolar disorder in adults, depressive disorder in mothers and dementia in the elderly are conditions that affect the whole family. Persons with mental disorders need specialized care closer to their homes. In this backdrop, mapping of available mental resources in the country is a felt need.

The update of the directory was a collaborative effort by the Directorate of Mental Health, Ministry of Health and the Professorial Psychiatry Unit of the Faculty of Medical Sciences, University of Sri Jayawardenepura.

Prof. Samudra T. Kathriarachchi
Former chair Professor of Psychiatry
University of Sri Jayawardenepura

Message from the Deputy Director General/ Non-Communicable Diseases

Mental health needs of community are vast and vary according to the ones who recognize the need. A considerable number of persons with mental disorders do not seek professional help, and the result is a considerable treatment gap. This publication developed by the Directorate of Mental Health, Ministry of Health, will be helpful for the services addressing to reduce the unmet mental health needs and improve access to mental health services.

Mental health service providers' Directory is a main comprehensive document of the Directorate of Mental Health that present the details to obtain mental health services throughout the country. This aims to facilitate the mental health services in the country and to increase awareness on available mental health services among health care service providers.

I would like to extend my sincere gratitude to all the contributors for their hard work in completing this publication. I hope that the users of this directory will be able to provide a comprehensive care to make this valuable publication more useful.

Dr. Champika Wickramasinghe
Deputy Director General/Non-Communicable Diseases
